VoiceWord for schools and workplaces

Talk to type and listen to read, in any Windows app. Private, on the PC.

What it does

Talk: hold a key and speak; the words are typed where the cursor is, in any app. Listen: highlight text or a whole page and hear it read, with each word lit up. Check (Plus): spelling and grammar, explained in plain words. It helps anyone who finds reading, writing or typing slow or hard.

Private by design

- Speech, reading and checking run on the PC. Nothing the user says, types or reads leaves it.
- No account, no sign-in, no ads, no tracking.
- It only goes online to download its parts, check for updates, send one anonymous daily count (version, Store or website copy, country; can be turned off) and, for a work licence, check the key with Lemon Squeezy.
- Problem reports are sent only when the user clicks Send, with personal details removed.

Accessible

- Everything works with the mouse alone; keyboard shortcuts are optional.
- Every VoiceWord window can read itself aloud.
- Short, plain words and big, clear buttons with icons.
- Reading helps: screen colours, a reading ruler and line focus.

Installing

Microsoft Store	Reviewed and signed by Microsoft; updates itself. Store ID `9NC94Z5SJ9FV`.
Intune	Apps > Windows > Add > Microsoft Store app (new), search for VoiceWord.
winget	`winget install --id 9NC94Z5SJ9FV --source msstore`
Rights needed	None: a per-user install, no admin rights. Windows 10 (1809+) or 11, 64-bit.
Disk and memory	About 1.3 GB on a typical PC (the optional AI helper adds 2 to 4 GB). 8 GB of memory or more recommended.

Licences

At home	Free for personal use. Optional VoiceWord Plus, bought in the Microsoft Store.
Work licence	NZ$99 per PC, one payment; NZ$792 for a 10-PC pack.
Schools	NZ$990 a year per school. A quote for more than 50 PCs.
Using the key	Each PC enters the work licence key in Settings > Plus. It works in the Store and website versions.
